

Indiana Association of Cities and Towns

Your Partner in Good Government

The Indiana Association of Cities and Towns is an affiliation of municipalities that work together to enhance the knowledge and skills of municipal leaders, exchange information and combine resources so that they may influence policy decisions at the state and federal levels.

As the official voice of municipal government in Indiana, the Association was founded in 1891 as a voluntary, non-profit, non-partisan organization. Its elected leadership considers geographical representation, municipalities of different sizes, and balance of political parties in establishing its legislative agenda, goals and objectives.

Its strength lies in its representation of more than 90% of Indiana citizens, and its non-partisan, civic-minded position.

Storm Water Phase II Workshop

March 25, 2003
Plymouth

March 27, 2003
Bloomington

CLE Credit Pending

The Water Pollution Control Board will consider the final adoption of Storm Water Phase II (Rule 13) on March 12, 2003. Will your community be ready? The Indiana Association of Cities and Towns, Indiana Department of Environmental Management and other partners offer this series of workshops in 2003 and 2004 to help you prepare for this federally mandated regulation. The first of these workshops will give an overview of the rule and discuss what community's options are for addressing the six minimum control measures of Rule 13. Funding options for storm water management will also be discussed. The Association's partnership with IDEM for this workshop makes it possible for us to offer it at no charge.

The Indiana Association of Cities and Towns offers education programs for municipal officials of its member cities and towns. Open to IACT members, government personnel and non-members, the objective of the workshops is to provide ongoing training and education about topics of interest and importance to municipal officials in Indiana, and to enhance the effectiveness of local government in the State.

For a complete list of the Association's workshops in 2003, go to www.citiesandtowns.org.

Workshop attendance this year will count as credit toward the Municipal Management Institute, which will launch in December, 2003.
